Supt. Fryor Recommends that a New Cus-tom Rouse be Built South of Bowling Green. Some time ago Col. W. A. Freret, Supervising Architect in the Treasury Department, asked William J. Fryer, Jr., the Superintendent of Repairs of the United States public buildags, to report to him his views on the condition of the public buildings in this city, and their adaptability for continued use. Superintendent Fryer, Jr., has made his report. Of the Custom House he says:

This building from the first was never quite adapted for the uses to which it was put, The building is old, damp, ill-lighted, badly estilated, has much waste space, and altogether affords but small accommodation in mparison to a modern building placed on a plot of ground of equal area. The ground ould bring at public auction probably about $3,000,000, or about three times as much as was purchaser would, of course, deem the building itself only fit to be torn down. At the request of the Collector of the Port, the Hon, Daniel Magone, plans have been prepared and submitted to you for remodelling the present fifth story and placing an additional (a sixth) story on the present building. It is proposed to remove the wooden roof from the present fifth story and put a fireproof, foor where the roof now is, and make a new sixth story, constructed entirely fireproof, with granite fronts on all four streets, in style corresponding in appearance with the present building.

Collector Magone, in a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury, says this can only be a temporary expedient. The Appraiser's stores he considers equally inconvenient for the purposes of the Government. The Sub-Treasury building answers the purpose fairly well now, but will soon be too small, he thinks. The present Assay Office, he says, is totally inadequate and unsuitable. The Refinery building in the rear "is a ramshackle structure, racked from long use. With some changes, the Barne Office and the Federal building will be all that is required. The sum of $730.474 has already been asked for the repair of these buildings. Ils conclusion the report says:

"I have to recommend that the Government sequire a suitable plot of ground and erect thereon the buildings already named. There would be a great advantage in having the Custom House to the Sub-Treasury. The Assay Office and Refinery should be by the side of the Custom House to the Sub-Treasury. The Assay Office and Refinery should be alongside of the Custom House to the Sub-Treasury. The Assay Office and Refinery should be alongside of the Sub-Treasury building. The plot of ground should be near the water, not too far sway from the money centre, and where the buildings and contents could receive proper Government protection in case of riots. The buildings abould be grouped together, not necessarily under one roof, but arranged with a system and for a purpose. After giving the question of location considerable thought it is my optio self only fit to be torn down. At the request of the Collector of the Port, the Hon, Daniel

TRYING ARTILLERYMAN KING, Did Willis Have a Knife and Threaten to

The trial of Artilleryman Francis H. King for the murder of Ryan H. Willis on the Government reservation at Fort Hamilton was continued yesterday in the United States Court in Brooklyn. Matthew Monahan testified that King and Willis were apparently good friends when they loft the saloon on the night of the shooting. and bade each other good night. When drunk Willis was very quarrelsome and would fight with either friend or foe. Lieut Granger Adams estified that when soldiers were going on duty they received a certain number of rounds of

MRS. COLTON'S SECRET STILL KEPT.

Released From Custody, and Her Mrs. Laura S. Colton, who kept a fashionable boarding house at 1,893 Lexington avenue, was arranged before Judge Gildersleeve yesterday on an indictment charging her with stealing property from the rooms of her board-To her friends and to the police Mrs. Colton has made no explanation of her motive in mmitting the thefts beyond the statement that she did not make enough money in the boarding house to support her. Mrs. Colton stood at the bar beside her lawyer, and was exnaively dressed in dark clothing. While she was self-possessed, her cheeks were flushed and her eyes bright. A long crape veil was thrown back from her bonnet. Mrs. Colton's brother and mother-in-law were summoned by Judge Gildersleeve to a consultation while he was on the bench, and Judge Gildersleeve said afterward, addressing Mrs. Colton:

Mrs. Coiton seemed to listen intently and with emotion to Judge Gildersleeve's address, and at its conclusion she bowed, said "Thank you," and, with her relatives, left the court room.

COLOMBO'S DYNAMITE MATISEE. Two Big Tenements for Spectators, and the Leading Man Knocked Ont, Niccolo Colombo, a rotund Italian ragpicker, who enjoys the privilege of going over the piles of city refuse before the Street Cleaning Department scows go out to sea, found on Monday ten bunches of long copper wire in a pile of dirt at Edgewater, S. I. There were fifty wires in each bunch, and attached to each wire was a copper cylinder about an inch long and a quarter of an inch in diameter.

wire was a copper cylinder about an inch long and a quarter of an inch in diameter.

To clean off the copper for sale Colombo started a bonfire resterday forencon in the courtyard at 55 Mulberry street, where he lives.

No. 55 is a five-story double tenement, with another building in the rear, and it is said that at least 400 Italians live in the front and rear building. When Colombo threw one of his bunches of wire into his bonlire there was a loud explosion. The bonlire and bunch of wires departed, the fat rag picker and another Italian, Giovanni Lazella, who was standing in the doorway, were knocked against the wall, broken glass came down in a shower from the shattered windows of the big tenement, and two hundred men and women and children ran out of their rooms.

Colombo's right arm and hand were burned and bleeding, and Lazella's face was cut and bruised, and he was so scared that his teeth chattered. Colombo fied when the tenants crowded around and began to swear at him in Italian.

Young Capt. McCullagh's policemen got around to the tenement and gathered up then like remaining bunches of wire that Colombo had left in the hallway of the rear tenement. They decided that the copper cylinders were fulminate primers for dynamite cartridges withelectric fuses attached. Sergeant Young and Detective Christol found Colombo hidden away under the roof of the big tenement about an nour after the explosion. They arrested him, and at the Tombs Lazella charged him with maliciously blowing him up with dynamite.

"Well," said Justice Power to Colombo, "I guess you got the worst of it, anyhow, and I'll discharge you."

DASHING CHARLES HALL.

His Young Wife Thinks He Tried to Polson Her to Get Insurance Money.

Miss Laura Dimond, a daughter of Justice of the Peace James Dimond of Paterson, got acquainted with a dashing young man named Charles Hall about a year ago. They fell in love, and were soon married. Hardly was the honeymoon over before the bride found that her husband had no visible means of support except betting on the horses at the Clifton track, and his investments there were generally on the wrong side of the market. He paid no bills, and finally he could find no one to trust him and his wife for a week's board. One day, yielding to his solicitations, Mrs. Hall acceded to his request to have her life insured for quite a large amount. From that time on her previous good health began to fall, until one day she accidentally discovered, so she says, that her husband was drugging her. She then left him, and her health was restored.

Hall came to New York and on New Years' Day he married a widow named Mrs. Luston. This was discovered by the first wife in a few days, and she made a charge of biganry, of assault and battery, and of attempted poisoning. Since that time Hall has been playing hide and seek with the officers of the law. The facts have been kept secret in hopes that he would be arrested. Not long since a statement of the case and Hall's photograph were sent to Inspector Byrnes, It is said that the detectives are now on Hall's track, and there is little doubt he will be apprehended before long. trust him and his wife for a week's board. THE REV. DR. ORMISTON RESIGNS.

He Gives Up his Pastorate, and is Going to Bermuda at Once for his Health,

The Rev. Dr. William Ormiston, whose esignation of the pastorate of the Collegiate Dutch Reformed Church, Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, was accepted by the consistory last Thursday, will sail for Bermuda tomorrow for a period of rest. The letter of resignation was read on Sunday in the Collegiate church, and was received with a good deal of surprise and regret. Dr. Ormiston has suffered for a number of winters from hearse-ness and loss of voice. He has been troubled in this way for some weeks past, and the uncerin this way for some weeks past, and the uncertainty of a speedy recovery was the cause of his resignation. Dr. Ormiston has filled the place of pastor for more than seventeen years. The consistory passed a set of resolutions expressive of the regret with which the resignation had been accepted and its hope for his quick recovery. It was also resolved to furnish Dr. Ormiston with a sum of money, and further, that his salary should be paid in full up to the last of July, and that he should have the use of a pew in the church for life.

Dr. Ormiston can form no plans for the future as long as his voice remains in its present condition, but it is hoped that his voyage to Bermuda will greatly improve his health.

The Commissioner Punched his Head, School Commissioner Joseph Fiesel of Long Island City was arraigned on a charge of assault preferred by Timothy J. Scully, janitor of the First ward school. The complainant said the Commissioner punched him in the head while he was ejecting him (Scully) from the Board of Education meeting room on Mon day evening. The Commissioner waived examination to go before the Grand Jury. He was required to furnish $300 bonds. At a meeting of the Board on Monday evening a summons and complaint in a suit begun by Janitor Scully against the Board to recover $197 as sainry was read. Upon metion of Commissioner Flessel, it was unanimously adopted to refer the matter to Corporation Counsel Foster, and also have the latter inform the Board as to the course best to pursue to remove Scully as janitor, on the ground that he was an unift person to mingle with children. After the meeting had adjourned Scully entered the room and accused Commissioner Flessel of trying to cust him. To this Commissioner Flessel refused to listen, and Janitor Scully became so abusive that the Commissioner hurried him out of the room by the coat collar. amination to go before the Grand Jury. He

Mrs. Fleming's Spirited White Horse. Blossom Heath at Larchmont is the country residence of Dr. Walter M. Fleming of 66 Madison avenue. Mrs. Fleming kept there a favorite horse called Jack, who was known for miles around as "The Cyclone," on account of his high spirit, style, and speed. Jack has been the special favorite of his mistress for several years, and she could manage him at will. eral years, and she could manage him at will, and no one else attempted to drive him, except occasionally the Dector himself, to whom he was also greatly attached. Jack was a magnificent horse, white as snow, and with a heavy mane and tail. On Sunday Mrs. Fleming entertained a few friends at Larchmont, and it being a niesant morning it was proposed that the cyclone be let out for a frolic. He, with another fine animal, was turned loose in a field, where the guests could see him. As was his custom, Jack bounded and curvetted about the place like a colt. In his roimp he overtaxed himself, and a blood vessel was ruptured. He recled and stargered, and then fell dead upon the laws. He will be laid in a shaded nock of Blossom Heath, and a tablet devoted to his praise will be erected.

Mrs. Emma V. Parks, who is the beneficlary under the will of Mrs. Sarah M. Silber, testified at the hearing before Surrogate Ranom yesterday that Mrs. Silber had never spoken to her about the will. Her relations with Mrs. Silber were very cordial and affec with Mrs. Silber were very cordial and affectionate, and she always called her "mother." She was 10 years old before she learned that she was really her grandmother.

Mrs. Julia Etoff testified that Mrs. Silber told her she would leave her property to Emma. Charles Silber told the wincess after Mrs. Silber's death that he had the key to the safe containing her papers, and that the old lady had divided her property into four parts. John Roone, who for a time had charge of Mrs. Silber's flats, testified that Mrs. Silber's and had threatened her. The hearing was adjourned until Feb. 28.

The Beautiful Portrayer of Lena Despard Seriously III in Chicago_Her New York Physician Sent for Paralysis of the Heart Suspected.

News of the most startling nature has just seen received from Chicago, indicating the sudden, and perhaps very serious, illness of Mrs. Langtry. Dr. Irwin, her New York physician, was telegraphed for at once, as the local physicians were of the belief that her trouble was angina pectoris (neuralgic spasu of the heart) a most serious and often fatal af-

It was the old custom to class all sudden deaths under the one term of heart disease, and heart disease in those days meant an organic change in the structure of the heart it-self. Nowadays physicians have come to recognize a peculiar form of nervous heart diffi-culty, due to overwork, mental strain, nervous exhaustion, &c., now such common complaints, that culminate as suddenly as a flash of lighting in intense neuralgic pain at the centre of the heart, accompanied by a terrible contrac that culminate as suddenly as a finsh of lightning in intense neuralgic pain at the centre of the heart, accompanied by a terrible contractive spasm of that organ, unconsciousness, and in many instances death, unless the relentless grip of the disease upon the heart is roleased. There are thousands of people in the world today who have this disease, and yet do not know it. Some call it "rheumatism of the rib muscles," and imagine it a trivial complaint; others call it "neuralgis of the breast," and they, too, look upon it as trivial, until a sudden determining spasm, agonizing pain, and a sense of sudocation bring them up with a sudden consciousness that the ley hand of death is upon them. Usually months before the seizure there are dizzy spells, weak, thready, and irregular pulse, faintness, giddiness, anxiety, and the like.

Remarkable as have been the many cures in all forms of nerveus disease wrought by Nature's own remedy, Scotch Oats Essence, in none of so grave a nature has this remedy acted so much like a specific as in angina pectoris or neuralgic spasm of the heart. Scotch Oats Essence not only cures grave diseases of this nature and saves life, but if taken by the wise man at the first premonition of evil it does much better than to cure disease, it averts it and prevents it.

This illness, if not fatal, will probably cost Mrs. Langity-for the expenses of her physician to Chicago, his fees, and cost of medicines—a very heavy sum of money unless she, like so many others, is wise enough to use Scotch Oats Essence both now and during the intermission between the spells which have lately affected her. Mrs. Langity is certainly a great actress, and one of the most megnificent women the world has ever seen, and it would be a pity, indeed, if she hersell, her friends, or her physician should overlook that one remedy of all others, Scotch Oats Essence, which not only would save her life, but strengthen and revivify her brain, and give her renewed power to act and think, and to thoroughly well carry out her s
